Karen West,

The latest information from Introduction to European Business Law by Lund University on Coursera.

Dear Friends,

Ten weeks have nearly passed and this course is coming to an end. We are now in the middle of the round-up week and there are a few important things you need to do before Saturday in order to complete the course:

- Please answer the welcome survey and the post-course survey. These surveys really help us get a glimpse of your expectations and how we can adjust the course content for a future optimal learning experience.
- Complete your graded quizzes. Since it is now round-up week, the quizzes are once again open for one more attempt. So there is a new chance for those who joined later or could not complete the quizzes before.
- Those of you who are doing your legal report during the second assignment, please do not forget to submit your evaluations according to the deadline.

We have decided to allow access for enrolled students to the lectures and reading material after the course ends on the 15th of March. However, it will no longer be possible to do the graded quizzes or to submit assignments. It will also no longer be possible to post in the forums. The course will become a so called "class archive" for the enrolled students. New students won't be able to enroll to the finished course.

Regards,

The Course Instructors
